These birds lay eggs in point with the lunar cycle. Ten days before a full moon occurs, the eggs will hatch. The Eastern Whip-poor-wills can capture large quantities of insects in the air at night when the moon is near full, which they feed to the hatchlings. These birds can find insects by observing their shadows against the night sky.

Birds of Pennsylvania - The Bird Guide
Birds are often measured in inches or centimeters in guide books. It's best to take a note of the bird in terms of small, medium, or large to be able to look for it later. A small bird is about the size of a sparrow, a medium bird is about the size of a pigeon and a large bird is the size of a goose.

Merlins are small, fierce falcons that use surprise attacks to bring down small songbirds and shorebirds. They are powerful fliers, but you can tell them from larger falcons by their rapid wingbeats and overall dark tones. Medieval falconers called them "lady hawks," and noblewomen used them to hunt Sky Larks. Merlin populations have largely recovered from twentieth-century declines ...
